Loco Fun at the Cinco de Mayo Celebration

BY JUDY KUMP

Cinco de Mayo only comes around on a Saturday once every few years, and with a Venice Tournament not going so well because of attendance, distance and fuel price issues, we made a last minute try for a lake party. So with a short 2-1/2 week announcement, we pulled it out of the hat and turned it into a success. We had 32 folks and 14 boats attending over the course of the day for our Cinco de Mayo celebration. A few boats came on Friday night to camp on their boats and were treated to a gorgeous night. Saturday, the picture perfect day started out very windy, then got even worse as our bigger boats began to arrive and TRY to drop anchor. Even the most seasoned boaters experienced difficulty dealing with the angry Wind Gods. One boat, which we will not mention by name, even performed a parallel parking feat to the amazement of onlookers. We welcomed back one of our long time club members, Dan French, who came all the way from Soddy Daisy, TN to join us for the summer. Glad to see you Dan - nice boat! Our Mexican food was kept flowing by our own chefs, Steve Guntner and Steve Fritz. There were tamales, tacos, and burritos, with all kinds of great toppings. We all ended up as stuffed as, well, a burrito - you did a great job Steve and Steve! The dips and appetizers were abundant and Kerry Browning made some delicious barbeque shrimp and yummy pork tenderloin. Galen Forbes' carrot pineapple upside-down cake; she out-did us all again for desserts. Steve Fritz got a special cake of his own

- it was his birthday and also Thomas Rhodes' 7th birthday, Michael and Wendy Rhodes' son. (Bill Rhodes grandson). Good way to celebrate with terrific food and great friends.

Just a perfect day all around. We had plenty of adult beverages flowing in the Margarita department.

Cinco de Mayo

We also have an unofficial contest during lake events each year, called the "Splash Down Award." It seems someone always has a fall in (or out of) a boat, or a "cooler dive" or similar. It's sort of like the "ASWSC Dysfunctional Lake Olympics". This year's "Splash Down Award" goes to Steve Gunter, for attempting to launch his 2-man raft off the stern of his boat and telling Libby, "it's OK, you can do it, it's easy". She told him, "you go first."

Then we heard the BIG splash. The Guntner Trolley had its first dunking, on the trip "to stay dry" and get to land.

Sorry, Steve, no rating scores yet. Seven boats stayed over Saturday night and what a beautiful night it was.

Our Cinco de Mayo party does not end after the food is consumed; we continue to party as the sun gets lower in the sky, the BEST part of the day. Some revelers headed to port, missing the day's tranquil end. The red, green and yellow chili pepper lights come on and sometimes the torches get lit (if the torch lighter is not already lit). We all sat under the tarps and howled at the Super Moon, the largest moon of the year. Thanks go to Steve and Libby Guntner, Steve and Kim Fritz, Angie and Doug Doolittle, Norm and Jo Bowen, Mike Springer, & Skeets Kump. Thanks everyone for setting up and running the shuttle, packing up supplies, and taking down tarps. Terrific job.

Club Island History

In 1988, the ASWSC had its first official summer picnic at the opposite end of the island (on Lake Lanier charts it is called “Storm Island”) with Lynne Siler and Jay White setting up the site. The next year we moved across the cove, nearer to The Lantern Inn docks and attended the Elvis show at The Lantern after the food was done. The restaurant is now called Pier 29. That is when I got hooked on helping with the picnics, having the only boat which could stay on and save the spot. By then, the membership was growing and getting too big for the second area, so we moved to the present location above, which was great except for too much poison oak and one Hawthorn tree with dead branches. Well, the tree is still there but the poison oak is gone. The reef has been very good to us, except when the water levels are extremely low. Each weekend, club members would gather there and worked hard moving large rocks up to the reef marker to make the bottom safe for boats. We moved the homemade bricks that form the fire pit from the second reef marker, where a house once stood, hauling them in buckets by hand. Back in the early days, we always had two events per year on the island: Spring Fling in May and Summer Picnic in July or August (some events had a Friday night fish fry). In 1998, Spring Fling was relocated across the cove on higher ground (near the large house) due to high water.

In this photo, the fire pit is on the right and the Hawthorn tree on the left, I am standing on the picnic sitting area in ankle deep water.

The club grew strong and families met, children met and grew up with the Club. The tournaments were great for fishing, but the rest of the family got to meet at the lake at picnics and weekends on Club Island. Photo at left is Kallie Browning and Holly Springer (both now in college), on Club Island beach. We can honestly say that the lake events WERE the SEEDS that made the Club grow, to mingle the family portion that did not attend the tournaments.

The reef has been covered with people lounging, then covered another year, in water and boats. At times we have hiked a bit thru bushes on the beach to reach the picnic area and other years park up next to it in our boats.

We missed 2 years without any events on Club Island, due to very low lake levels, much worse than they are now. Past President, Alex Crawford named it "Club Island" as our weekend congregating place.

The photo to the left was taken in 2007 with a full growth of trees on Club Island. Below left is the exact same area taken on Easter 2012 by Libby Guntner. Notice the missing and sparse trees, most pines were weak from pine beetles; the rest fell in a tornado in 2009, just before a fire burned most of the ground inside the center. The beaches developed an unsightly overgrowth from the low water levels, but the beautiful sunrises and Heaven sent moon-sets on the water more than make up for it. It is a m a z i n g how this sleepy little cove and island (now connected to the mainland) on Lanier can turn crazy into party central a few weekends out of the year for our Club. If those trees could talk, it would tell stories of our Club's 22 years of partying at that end of the island and the many weekends of just rafting up there. Its trees have fallen, its beaches have covered in growth and its water level diminished, but it has a VERY special place for our Club on that island, with many fond fun memories made there!

We have updates on our growing Club family. Carrie and Holly Springer (Mike Springer's daughters) have grown up with the Club, fished with us in tournaments and are pictured here at the Club's Christmas party.

Keith Lynn has fished with us for years and has grown up with the Club, pictured here at the Christmas party with his wife LC and next generation of his own children, continuing the family tradition.

We have all watched these two Junior Anglers win awards for a few years now, Kendall and Jonathan Spencer, Jace and Deborah's sons. We are seeing them grow right before our eyes. Great fishing Kendall and Jonathan!

Michael Rhodes, son of Bill and Donna Rhodes, loves fishing like his Dad. Michael and Wendy Rhodes have two sons: Jack and Thomas, who are part of the next generation to be added to our fishing family. I remember Michael going back 37 years ago.

Kerry and Kathy Browning's son Drake has been with our fishing Club family and was at the Cinco de Mayo celebration.

Henry and Elaine Bishop's son and daughter, Aaron and Gina, have fished with us for years and grown up with the Club.

Wonderful News

Our Club's founder, Leon and wife Judy Brown, have 3 sons, who have grown up with the Club: Alex, Jonathan and Danny, who have fished with us for years. It is with great pride, that I add this photo of Jonathan and wife Ashleigh. Jonathan just returned from the war in Afghanistan, back to Hawaii (where he was stationed).

God Bless you Jonathan and we are so thankful He has brought you home safely! Thank you, from All of us in the ASWSC, for your service to our great country, we are proud of you!!

I wish I had more names and photos to add. For those I missed, I hope you send me photos. One important thing is to bring your entire family to our events so they can all meet our club's Fun Fishing Family. Let's keep the ASWSC family growing and fishing for the next generation and beyond!!

Lenny's Report - "Chasing the Dream" in ENGLEWOOD 2012

Hi Ya'll, If you consider me to be a friend then I have probably invited you to join me in my "Winter Home" My Tindaminium, yeah its a double wide. Its in Englewood Florida a short boat ride, 1.2 miles, into the gulf and about 15 miles from Boca Grand Pass. Back in the fall Steve Anglin and Ron Renolds came down for a few days. Ron is a new member this year and has a place at Cape Coral. We got off shore and picked up some Red Grouper, AJ's, Lane Snapper as well as a bunch of Sand Perch and Grunts. This year has been just incredible for fishin. With almost no winter the fishin never turned off. I did manage to get a few members to join me, Jace Spencer and his family came down for 4 days but the wind was a blowin so we didn't get off shore. The in-shore Sheepshead bite was hot and we had a great time. Debbie is always taken pictures and enjoys the area as much as me. After Easter, Bob Skrypek stopped by for a day of fishin too. It was a bit rough shore and picked up a couple of AJ's, 6 Red Grouper and a bunch of Vermilions. A couple of weeks ago Frank Nicoletti, Darrin Maietta and Jim Tatum came in for a try at the Tarpon Run. We fished off shore a couple of days and had great catches of Red Grouper. We joined the fleet of boats at Boca Grand Pass during a ladies tournament. We had fun but no hook-ups for us. The gals where into it big time and we saw a bunch of hook-ups and flying Tarpon too. One of the attached pictures is of my brother Bob and sister Dot with Bob's 30+ lb Blackfin caught earlier this month. That's the first and only tuna we have caught there and only in 75 feet of water. I hope more of you will join me at my Tindaminium. I'll be there from October till June again next season, Lord willin !!

Regards Lenny

Member Profile Ben Lazar

Our featured member for May is Ben Lazar. Ben joined ASWSC this year after he went sailfishing with me in January. Ben grew up in New Jersey but did most of his fishing from the venerable Sailfish Marina on Singer Island, Florida where Ben was the first mate on his father's charter boat, The Marker 32. While not a professional fisherman, Ben is an avid angler. He's not a boat owner but that's because he's got a busy life as a VP of Sales & Marketing at Arrow Electronics, father of two beautiful teenage girls, and husband to a wonderful wife, Laura. One great way to meet people is to go fishing and on one of Ben's many vacation trips to go fishing he met Laura. They fished together, began dating, and the rest is history. Ben fell in love and they've been fishing together ever since. One area Ben has spent a lot of time fishing is central America: Guatemala, Costa Rica, Panama to name a few countries. Ben and Laura have enjoyed their trips down there so much they bought a bunch of land on the pacific coast of Costa Rica and have been developing a low key community of privately owned homes.

Other facts about Ben that may or may not be true:

- He makes annual trips to Central America to fish with his buddies, 13 years running
- His wife is an avid and better angler, definitely better looking
- Ben did a solo summit on K2 without oxygen, in winter
- In the last three years, Ben has assisted 7 anglers catch their first blue marlin/sailfish
- He holds 29 saltwater world records

Ben loves to cram lots of experiences into his life and if asked, he'll tell you he's a believer in building a life full of great stories, wonderful memories, and strong friendships. When you run into Ben at a club meeting or event, see which of these bullets are true and find out more half truths. He's a great conversationalist, as many sales people are, and easy to approach.

President's Thoughts 2012—Wishing Y'all a Great Summer

Wow, I almost can't believe it is May already. My work schedule has had me steppin' and fetchin' full on for the last 90 days. I really am looking forward to getting to the saltwater and wetting some lines. I've heard from a few club members that they've had great fishing trips already this year. I have to credit an interesting mix of reasons as to why I believe this will be a great year to fish: 1) crazy federal closures rules which have allowed some fish species to grow huge and large in population, 2) relatively mid spring weather so far in the Midwest and seasonably regular rainfall so we don't have a huge volume of muddy river water dumping into the Gulf from the Mississippi, 3) it is a leap year which gives us one more day to go fishing!

I am personally looking forward to the Appalachian club tournament since I haven't had the time to break from work since January when we went sailfishing in South Florida. I hope everyone takes advantage of this club tournament and comes out to fish, play, and compete. Our club is energized by sharing of stories and experience of you, the membership. Your willingness to capture a few photos, write a few words down about a trip, or craft a "how did I do it" story are simple acts you can invest in to put excitement into our social group of saltwater frenzied friends around metro Atlanta. Please make a personal commitment to capture your story and share it. You can send a note to myself, Darrin Maietta, or Jace Spencer to let us know what you intend to write about.

One other topic I thought I'd touch on, the continued struggles between the federal agencies attempting to "manage" the fisheries around the US and lobbying groups which fight to push and defend different groups points of view. Our federal government certainly seems hell bent to split up the country into sectors and divide the fishermen (and fisherwomen) into smaller groups who can't build a large group to argue our point of view. I hate to see this but I personally have invested, and continue to invest in the Recreational Fishing Association (RFA) as I judge this lobbying group fighting in our best interests. Please don't ignore what's going on because we'll end up on the losing end of the fight if we don't help. Some can volunteer time, some can write their congressmen/women and state representatives, some can donate money, and some can do even more than that. Give it some serious thought and make a choice. I, for one, thank you in advance for giving this topic a few moments of focus. I won't attempt to tell you what to do, other than research the situation, analyze what you learn, and make a choice as to what you will do.

On a lighter note, I heard the May Cinco de Mayo get-together on Lake Lanier was a success. Please thank Judy Kump either in person or via e-mail if you get a chance. She was the sparkplug behind the event and pulling volunteers together for a first boating party of the year. I didn't hear of any dead batteries or forgotten hull plugs. That's good. It means that most of the captains are on top some of their spring maintenance. I remember a time, around 20 years ago, when I lived in Tennessee. Some buddies of mine at the time and I got together every Saturday morning during the summer to waterski and barefoot (yes, without skis). Well the first weekend of the season, on a chilly Saturday morning, I hitched up my Barefoot Sanger to the old Jeep Cherokee and hauled off to the ramp. I was the first one there and thought I'd get ahead of the routine by getting the boat in the water by myself before the other guys showed up. Well it was 6am and sun was just coming up. The water was flat calm with no wind (perfect for barefooting) and no one else was at the ramp pushing me timewise. So I drove the boat off the trailer, put her up on the bank next to the ramp, parked the truck, and jumped back in the boat to wait for my friends. I think I dozed off for a minute or two but when my friends showed up, I was sitting in a boat which was half full of water. Yep, I had forgotten to put the plug in the hull. So take this story to heart and make sure you double check all your systems, no matter how basic they may be, before you splash your boat for your next fishing adventure. A few minutes of prep walking through your boat to make sure all is in order is an important safety practice.

Tight lines, Keith
